

Sent:

2004-09-08 - 22:00

Subject:

Postcard

If you go to Dinosaur National Monument looking for dinosaurs you might be disappointed. There is a quarry of dinosaur bones. They chip them out of the rock, clean'm, classify'm and store'm. Yippee.

There are other reptiles:

There is an entire town (Vernal, Utah) full of ghastrly, glitzy, gaudy, garish, godzillas. This particular one is the entry point to Vernal on U.S. 40. It looks like something Fred Flintstone would see if he got the D.T.'s:

But they do have some nice hikes. This is the Sound of Silence trail. It has lizards, big sky, big rocks, desert flora and pronghorn antelope poop. And if you're real quiet you can just hear Art Garfunkel.

D&S