Elaine's B&B, at the top of a dirt road off of route 14, is our home in Cedar Crest. Straight out the exterior door of our room is a trail into the national forest where we grabbed a snapshot at sunrise this morning.

Elaine took our picture on the way out.

Rain and snow were coming so we decided to stay in the car, drove up to Sandia Crest at 10,678 ft overlooking ABQ, and saw stuff.

Saw mountains.

Saw a gray-headed dark-eyed junco.

Saw Aber's squirrel

Saw communication towers

Saw trees

Saw the rain, snow and sleet on the windshield and went back to Elaine's to read. Tonight we ate our fourth meal at Greenside Café and topped it off with our third serving of Chocolate Almond Butter Mousse pie. We shall prevail.
